Monetary unit

Social spending is expressed in millions of Euros (EUR).

General notes

There are five social insurance branches: Statutory Pension Insurance, Statutory Sickness Insurance, Statutory Long-term Care Insurance, Statutory Accident Insurance and Unemployment Insurance.

The Federal Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs supervises old age and invalidity pension, insurance, and accident and unemployment insurance. The Federal Ministry of Health is responsible for statutory sickness insurance and long-term care insurance. The Federal Ministry of Family, Senior Citizens, Women and Youth is responsible for child benefits and parental leave benefits.

The individual country notes of the OECD Benefits and Wages (www.oecd.org/social/benefits-and-wages.htm) provide a comprehensive description of characteristics of social programmes (e.g. conditions for receipt, calculation of payment rates, tax treatment of social support, benefit duration, etc.) for the working-age population, including: unemployment insurance and assistance, social assistance, employment-conditional benefits, housing benefits, family benefits, childcare support, and support for sole parent households.

Break in series

Expenditure refers to Western Germany up to and through 1990, and to the unified Germany from 1991 onwards.

Data for 1990 onwards are based on the new ESSPROS methodology format. Coherent spending series for 1980 onwards at the individual programme level were obtained on basis of information for a few years in the early 1990s for which both historical spending series and information based on the new ESSPROS format were available. For certain programmes and aggregate categories, breaks in series (between 1989 and 1990) were inevitable. In general, programmes from the old ESSPROS format which could not be matched with a figure from the new ESSPROS format were set to “missing” from 1990 onwards; similarly, figures from the new ESSPROS format which could not be matched to a programme from the old methodology were set to “missing” for the period 1980-89.

Code Title of the programme Description of the programmes and attached notes

1 OLD AGE
276.10.1.1.1.1	Statutory pension insurance	To qualify for a standard pension, a person must be 65 years and 8 month of age and have contributed for at least five years (waiting period).
276.10.1.1.1.5	Social compensation, assistance to war victims	Social compensation is paid to war victims, victims of violent acts, victims of injuries sustained in the course of civilian or military service, victims of vaccinations and persons imprisoned for political reasons if they suffer damage to their health.
276.10.1.1.1.8	Pension insurance for independent professions	Only some categories of independent professions are insured automatically. Such is the case for artisans. Artists and journalists are automatically enrolled for disability and old age insurance if their annual incomes exceed a certain threshold, or if they have been employed for less than five years.
276.10.1.1.1.9	Old age assistance for farmers	Farmers are enrolled automatically in the farmers' old-age provident scheme.
276.10.1.1.1.13	Civil servant pension	Civil servants, judges, career military officers, enlisted volunteers and comparable workers employed by governments or public establishments or foundations who are not subject to compulsory insurance.
276.10.1.1.2.1	Statutory pension insurance	A person need not attain the normal age of 65 years and 8 months to be entitled to a pension. However, in this case pension payments are smaller: for each year of early retirement, the rate of the pension is reduced by 3.6 %.
2. SURVIVORS
276.10.2.1.1.1	Statutory pension insurance	Since 1986, the law has provided equal protection for widows and widowers, but prior to this; a widower was entitled to a pension only if he had been financially dependent on his deceased spouse. The widow's or widower's pension amounts to 60% of the pension for which the deceased spouse would have been eligible. The pension is payable from the age of 45 onwards in case of incapacity or if the widow or widower is bringing up a child under the age of 18 or has no age-related restrictions if bringing up a child who cannot look after itself on account of a mental or physical handicap.
3. INCAPACITY-RELATED BENEFITS (Disability, Occupational injury and disease, Sickness)
276.10.3.1.1.0	Disability pension	The minimum of level of incapacity giving entitlement to compensation is equal to 20 per cent after the 26th week following the employment injury. During the first two weeks after injury, review is possible at any time; after permanent annuity is fixed, at intervals of at least one year. At standard retirement age (2019: 65 years and eight months), disability pensions are converted into old-age pensions.
276.10.3.1.1.1	Statutory pension insurance	Total incapacity (voll erwerbsgemindert): situation of an insured person when, as result of sickness or infirmity, she or he is not able to work during an indefinite period for at least 6 hours a day in the regular labour market conditions. Partial incapacity (teilweise erwerbsgemindert): situation of an insured person when, as result of sickness or infirmity, she or he is not able to work during an indefinite period for at least 3 hours a day in the regular labour market conditions. For employees, the minimum period of affiliation for entitlement is equal to 60 months, of which 36 contribution months in the 5 years before onset of complaint. For handicapped persons incapable for work, it is equal to 240 months of insurance. In principle, pensions are taxable.
276.10.3.1.2.0	Occupational injury and disease	Accident insurance is compulsory and dates back to 1884. Accident insurance benefits include medical and occupational rehabilitation, cash payments to insured (e.g. indemnities for loss of salary and pension benefits) and, in the event of death, survivors' benefits (e.g., survivor's pension).
276.10.3.1.3.0	Paid sick leave	Include both : 1- Transitional allowance for medical treatment (Übergangsgeld bei Heilbehandlung) which is provided as a wage substitute for the duration of the medical treatment. The amount of the transitional allowance is determined by the insured remuneration and family circumstances of the person concerned immediately prior to commencement of the treatment. 2- Sickness benefit (Krankengeld) which corresponds to 70% of the gross remuneration up to the upper limit for the calculation of contributions, but may not exceed 90% of their most recent net income. Following six weeks of continued payment of wages (by the employer), a sickness benefit is payable for a maximum of 78 weeks during a three-year period. A sickness benefit is payable for up to ten days per year for each child under the age of 12 who, according to a doctor's attestation. The entitlement to the benefit increases to a maximum of 20 days per insured child if the insured person is a single parent. Not more than 25 working days per year can be claimed by each insured parent (a maximum of 50 working days for single parents); in the case of seriously ill children, there is no time limit (for one parent).

276.10.3.1.5.22	Early retirement benefit due to reduced capacity to work (Statutory pension insurance) (non means tested)	Cash benefit paid to insured persons with partial (see above) and full reduced earning capacity pension (see above). The partial reduced earning capacity pension is paid at half the rate of a full-reduced earning capacity pension. In principle, people are eligible if during the last five years they paid contributions over a period of at least three years or prior to 1984 satisfied the general waiting period requirements and from 1984 onwards have each month completed pension insurance periods up to the occurrence of the reduced earning capacity. The waiting period of five years must be completed before the person has become disabled. However, certain periods will be considered for the waiting period to be extended (for example: period of training or unemployment; parental periods; home care). If disability is due to an accident during work, both the three-year contributory period and the five-year waiting period are not necessary for being eligible for a disability pension.
276.10.3.2.2.1	Rehabilitation for disabled	Functional rehabilitation as part of medical care is at the expense of the employers' insurance association (Berufsgenossenschaft).
4. HEALTH
276.10.4.2.0.0	Public Expenditure on Health	See OECD Health Statistics .
5. FAMILY
276.10.5.1.1.2	Child benefit	Since 1996, the " Familienlastenausgleich " has consisted primarily of tax relief, not cash payments.
276.10.5.1.1.3	Public transfers to support families with children	Tax part of "Public transfers to support families with children" is estimated at 60%; it is excluded.
276.10.5.1.2.3	Parental leave benefits: child raising allowance	All dependent employees, male or female, are entitled to parental leave of up to 36 months, to be taken before their child's third birthday. Leave may be taken alternatively by each parent, up to three times. The recipient enjoys full protection against layoff.
276.10.5.2.1.1	Child day care : youth assistance	Include : 1- Early Childhood Education and Care (ECEC). Children have a right to attend ECEC services (centre-based child care or family day care) from the age of three years until starting school since 1996. In 2013 this entitlement to an ECEC place was extended to children from the age of one year. Participation contributions and charges are levied for children attending ECEC, and these usually depend on income and/or the number of children. Since any support provided is recorded in ESSOS as a net figure, i.e. after deduction of such charges and contributions, means-testing is involved. Both direct expenditure by public bodies and the subsidies accorded to privately run institutions (voluntary welfare organisations, churches, youth associations) are recorded. 2- Support for private youth-welfare bodies. Public expenditure on supporting private bodies providing individual and group-based assistance is recorded on a net basis (also see 4.2a).
6. ACTIVE LABOUR MARKET PROGRAMMES
