Monetary unit

Social spending is expressed as millions of new pesos (MXN).

To make comparable the data reported in the SOCX figures it was adjusted as follows: up to 1992 it refers to billions of “pesos” (old pesos), starting from 1993 to 1995 it refers to millions “new pesos” and since 1996 they are millions “pesos” that have the same value to new pesos, the name was only adjusted.

The entire series presented up to 2019 is in millions of current pesos.

General notes

The information refers only to the social programs operated by the federal government, although some programs also involve state and municipal participation.

The individual country notes of the OECD Benefits and Wages (www.oecd.org/social/benefits-and-wages.htm) provide a comprehensive description of characteristics of social programs (e.g. conditions for receipt, calculation of payment rates, tax treatment of social support, benefit duration, etc.) for the working-age population, including: unemployment insurance and assistance, social assistance, employment-conditional benefits, housing benefits, family benefits, childcare support, and support for sole parent households.

The data registered for the periods of 2017, 2018 and 2019 come mostly from the data of the public account of the federal government, except for the cases mentioned below, where the data from the documents published by the institutions were obtained or they were provided by them.

For several years in different concepts it was necessary to change the registration criteria, to make them compatible with the data published in official government media.

However, it should be noted that the federal government contributes with contributions for pensions and retirements according to other provisions of the law, and that they become part of the IMSS's own resources, which as a whole for 2017 reached 345 billion pesos as recorded in the branch 50. All pensions granted under the now repealed Disability, Old Age, Unemployment in Old Age and Death Insurance (1973 Law) constitute a liability only in charge of the Federal Government, that is to say, they are obligations of the Federal Government where the IMSS is only the administrator, in accordance with the provisions of the Third, Eleventh and Twelfth Transitory Articles of the reform to the Social Security Law, published in the Official Gazette of the Federation on December 21, 1995 and effective as of July 1, 1997. ISSFAM provides members of the Mexican Armed Forces and their beneficiaries with health, economic and social benefits. It also administers the pensions of retired military personnel, either from the Secretariat of National Defense (SEDENA) or the Secretariat of the Navy (SEMAR). In the FEDERATION EXPENDITURE BUDGET (2017 AND 2018) PROGRAMMING STRATEGY (SUMMARY): It is established that Branch 19 groups together the provisions of the resources to finance compliance with the obligations established by the applicable laws and provisions on social security . reported separately due to its importance and characteristics. individuals. Because of the employment subsidy, wage earners with incomes of up to 1.7 SMGA, for whom the subsidy is greater than the corresponding tax, obtain an increase in their net income in an amount equivalent to the difference between both concepts.

By applying the employment subsidy, the ISR to be paid by the workers is reduced. The application of this benefit not only reduces the worker's income tax, but also represents additional income for lower-income workers (Tenth Transitory Article of the Decree that reforms, adds and repeals various provisions of the Value Added Tax Law ; of the Law of the Special Tax on Production and Services; of the Federal Law of Rights, the Law of the Income Tax is issued, and the Law of the Business Flat Tax, and the Law of the Tax on Deposits in Cash published in the DOF on December 11, 2013 and Article 1.12 of the Presidential Decree published in the DOF on December 26, 2013).

The application of this subsidy is general and automatic.

The estimate of the fiscal expenditure for the employment subsidy was obtained using information that the employers reported in the CFDI (Digital Tax Receipts by Internet) of payroll. This concept does not have an expense record, it is considered a tax and income category.

In 2007, article 115 of the Income Tax Law, which established the amount to calculate the salary credit, was repealed. In the operating budget of fiscal expenditures found on page Finance referred to 19 OECD countries among which currently is Mexico, are required to prepare you tax expenditure budget which contains the estimates of the employment subsidy. In 2008 the legislature agreed to substitute the salary credit for the employment subsidy, in the transitory articles of the 2010 tax code it is explained that the employment subsidy is a fiscal expense that must be classified within the ISRE (Business Income Tax).

| 484.10.9.1.2.1 | Indigenous national institute (INI / CDI) National Commission for Indigenous Development (CDI) (Comisión Nacional para el Desarrollo de los Pueblos Indígenas) Since July 2003 the CDI has been created as a decentralized organism of the Federal Public Administration. The responsibilities of CDI are to orient, to coordinate and to evaluate the public actions for the integral and sustainable development of the towns and indigenous communities. CDI was preceded by The National Institute for Indigenous Populations which run different projects for the indigenous populations living in extreme poverty. Support has many forms: education, social welfare, product development, securing justice, basic social infrastructure, etc. |

The difference with respect to previous years is explained by the implementation of various rationality measures in operating expenses; However, the indigenous population continues to be served in a transversal manner through various agencies that support actions for the development and well-being of indigenous peoples, such as: The Ministry of Communications and Transportation, with the execution of investment projects that promote infrastructure in areas that present lags and that jointly promote better living conditions for the population, such as the construction and maintenance of rural roads and highways; the Ministry of Welfare with the components of the Sembrando Vida program, serving agrarian subjects that are in rural locations, prioritizing those with indigenous and Afro-Mexican populations, with social backwardness, as well as the Pension for the Well-being of Older Adults program , which considers a specific component to support indigenous older adults; the Ministry of Health, through the Rectoría en Salud program, benefits indigenous people through the Ventanillas de Salud strategy and the Binational Health Week; mainly.

In previous years (2012-2016 validated), this format has been required for the case of CDI (Today National Institute of Indigenous Peoples INPI) with the total resources exercised by the entity (public account), so to be consistent
